

“The Attractiveness of Christlikeness in the Workplace”

1 Peter 2:18-25

Message #10 July 12, 1992

Intro

Message (Remember, real inside out change progresses along the path of suffering.)

Economic injustice (suffering in the workplace) calls for respectful submission, not resentful compliance because...

- A. that choice displays grace – one of God’s most attractive attributes – to unbelieving supervisors and co-workers (18-19).
- B. that choice puts a protective hedge around our growing treasure in heaven – the glory that continually attracts our hearts toward home (20).
- C. that choice models both an innocent and self-sacrificial spirit – core ingredients in the love of God that attracts unbelievers (21-25).